Workshop Replay & Next Steps

With Sarah

Replay access, coaching details, and special workshop pricing.

Thank You For Joining

Thanks again for joining the workshop. The main goal of this training was to simplify the process of building something online and help show how all the pieces actually fit together in a more realistic and manageable way.

As a thank you for attending the workshop, there is also an exclusive discounted rate available for the coaching program for a limited time, which you'll find further down in this PDF.

Inside This PDF

- The workshop replay
- Coaching information
- Exclusive workshop pricing
- Payment options
- Next steps if you'd like to continue working together

I recommend watching the replay with a notebook nearby so you can pause sections, revisit ideas, and focus on the areas that stood out most to you.

Continue Working Together

During the workshop, I mentioned that one of the biggest reasons people stay stuck is because they're trying to figure everything out completely on their own. That's exactly why I created the coaching program. Instead of spending months second guessing every decision, overthinking every step, or trying to piece together random information from different places, we work through the process together step-by-step in a much more manageable way. This is hands-on coaching focused on implementation and progress — not just more information.

What We'll Work Through Together

- Choosing your product idea
- Structuring your offer
- Building your content
- Organizing your product
- Creating your sales page
- Setting up your email system
- Understanding launches and promotion
- Simplifying your workflow
- Building a repeatable process you can continue using long-term
- Launching your own product

You'll also receive:

- Weekly live Google Meet coaching calls
- Recordings of every session
- Direct support and guidance
- Help simplifying confusing areas
- Accountability and implementation support
- All of Jim's AI Formulators valued at over $1000

The goal is not just to learn information.

The goal is to actually build something real together during the program.

Final Thoughts

Most people are far more capable of building something online than they realize. What usually holds people back is not a lack of ability. It's overwhelm, second guessing, and trying to navigate everything completely alone. Sometimes the biggest difference is simply having guidance, support, and somebody helping you put the right pieces together in the right order. If you're ready to finally move forward and start building something real step-by-step, I'd love to work with you.
